- ✓ Enjoy winter wonderland in Harbin and Sapporo
- ✓ New non-stop Sapporo flights from Singapore
- ✓ Promotional fares up for grabs

Singapore – Winter is upon us, will you be scooting? Hot on the heels of launching sales for Kuching and Kuantan, Scoot – Airlineratings.com’s Best Low Cost Airline (Asia/Pacific) for three years running – is now launching sales for three-times-weekly services to wintry Harbin and new non-stop flights to snowy Sapporo!

Harbin is the capital of Heilongjiang, China’s most northeastern province. Renowned as the ‘Ice City’, the city’s annual International Ice and Snow Sculpture Festival held in January is a must-see for all visitors. The city’s historic ties to Russia have also influenced its culture, food and architecture to create a unique melding of East and West. Scoot’s Singapore-Harbin services will be operated with the 787 Dreamliners on a seasonal basis three times a week, from 1 December 2017 to 23 March 2018.

While Scoot has been flying to Sapporo for more than a year, the existing services are routed via Taipei and have been very well-received. This winter, in response to promising demand, Scoot is adding up to two non-stop Singapore-Sapporo flights a week. One will start from 3 November 2017, while the other will start from 3 December 2017. The non-stop flights will be operated with the 787 Dreamliners on a seasonal basis until 11 February 2018.

Scoot CEO Mr Lee Lik Hsin said, “Much as Singaporeans love the tropical delights of our sunny island nation, the allure of winter is undeniably compelling! We’ve gotten many requests from guests to fly to more winter destinations, and Harbin tops the list, so we’re pleased to finally be flying there. Our Singapore-Taipei-Sapporo services have also been a crowd-pleaser since launch, but in response to feedback, we will be launching additional non-stop Singapore-

Sapporo services in the winter peak season! As always, Scoot aims to give you more choices, more convenience and greater value for your dollar.”
